Prague LL.M. Programme

International Master of Laws (LL.M.)

LLM Flier

The Faculty of Law of the Charles University has gained much experience in pedagogical and scientific work in the area of Europeization and internationalization of studies. This holds true not only with respect to the education of Czech students but also with respect to the education of foreign students on the international level. It is especially important to note the successive creation of the study programme "Czech Legal System in European Context", which is taught solely in English and is predominantly designed for ERASMUS students from the EU. This programme has been facilitated at our Faculty by the fact that we have offered programs for international students for more than 10 years already. In particular, Summer Schools for U.S. law students may be mentioned: Summer Law School with South Texas College of Law and the Summer Externships (former Summer Schools) in cooperation with San Francisco University. In addition, exchange programmes with foreign universities make it possible for student exchanges with universities outside of the EU, especially with NOVA Southeastern University, University of San Francisco, China University of Political Science and Law, Tel Aviv University and others. Broad Ph.D. study programmes carried out at the Law Faculty are also being offered in the English language.

By introducing its own LL.M. programme, the Faculty of Law of the Charles University seeks to join the ranks of the world's leading academic institutions in the field of law. However, implementation of such a programme cannot be seen as a purely technical issue. Students of the LL.M. programme become clients of the Faculty and are not students in the classical meaning. The content of courses is not purely theoretical, but quite to the contrary – they are highlighted by an interactive approach focused on practical skills and knowledge. It is therefore undertaken to offer to the prospective students activities like case studies, moot courts, clinics, excursions etc. Prominent international scholars will also be invited to participate in the programme, either by way of individual lectures or whole courses.

The organizational aspects of the programme shall be administered by the International Office of the Faculty and the person responsible for the LL.M. programme in whole shall be the Vice-Dean for International Relations, Professor Milan Damohorský.
